

Workplace University Online Learning Management System

Affordable Cloud-based Learning

Online Learning can be used as part of an integrated solution with HR Director™ Human Resources Management System enabling an end-to-end solution for course creation, delivery and training management for organizations globally. Because the system is completely Cloud-based, it can also be used as a standalone solution for Learning Management from anywhere and anytime. For organizations with international training requirements, the system supports interactive course creation and management in virtually any language all in a secured, audited environment.

Create Workplace Universities

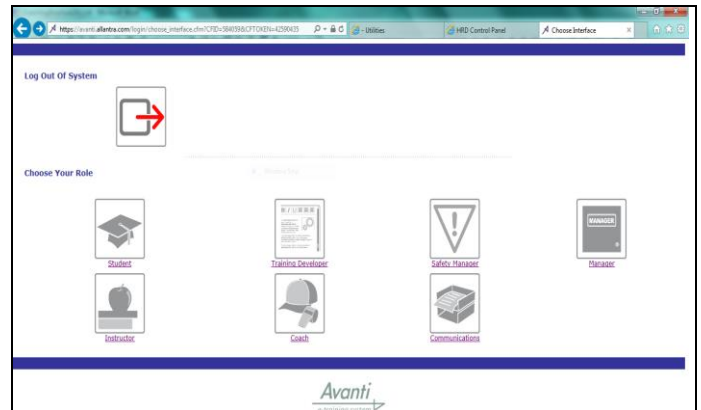

For the large majority of organizations, creating courseware content specific to their business is an overwhelming and costly undertaking. Purchasing existing courseware and modifying it requires subject matter expertise, professional course designers and other technical resources. With ASL's Learning Management anyone with access to the system and with knowledge in a specific area can create courseware. According to experts surveyed by Swanson & Falkman, Online Learning addresses many of the barriers to creating effective workplace universities

Develop Content Libraries

It's easy to develop and build libraries of reusable learning objects and content. Simply reuse existing content such as PowerPoint™ slides, Flash videos, audio files, Word™ and PDF documents and more. By uploading your proprietary content instead of re-creating it from scratch you increase productivity and ultimately profitability.

Improve Training Delivery & Success

Planning for training and its delivery can be tedious and time consuming in addition to the problems encountered by novice as well as experienced trainers. Online Learning addresses issues related to fear, credibility, experience, difficult students, participation, timing, training course adjustment, questions, feedback, materials, opening & closing techniques and the dependency on notes. According to most experts, these issues can be dealt with in an objective and transparent way via Online Learning since students' subjectivity is removed from the process.

Powerful and Easy to Use

Because we use browser-based, Internet Self-Service Technology and workflow functionality to provide step-by-step guidance, minimal training is required. Integrated workflow means that curricula, courses, results and certificates are automatically managed for approvals, passing grades and more.
